Reason for leaving - most recent employer *

I'm currently employed here. Please do not contact unless I accept an offer. I'm looking for career growth opportunities. IDS is a small company and they're planning to stay small. I love the guys I work with but there just isn't opportunity for career development internally.

Job Title - Second employer *

Sales Rep

Job Duties - Second employer *

I was responsible for selling concrete pumping parts and pipe. My main focus was selling boom systems or pipe kits. I handled those and the department for the company. The job required me to read through pump truck schematics and essentially do take offs on the pipe required for the specific vehicle. With that information I created a quote for the customer. Once sold the order would go back to production and I was responsible for working with the production manager to perfect the process. I held meetings for the production team. We were able to turn a failing pipe department into a successful profit generating arm of the business.

Reason for leaving - Second employer *

I left to help my dad. He's had a number of major medical issues including cancer. I left on good terms with a two week notice and I've remained good friends with Harry (Sales Manager) ever since I left. He's offered me more money to come back but I've passed. I wanted to get out of direct sales. I was interested in Estimating and I found a job doing just that.

Explain any gaps in your employment history *

The main gap is between CPS and IDS from 3/22 to 12/22. I was helping my dad during that time. My dad had many trips to the ER during that time, multiple hospitalizations and surgeries. I thought we were going to lose him and I wanted to be with him.

List any other experience, job-related skills, additional languages, or other qualifications that you believe should be considered.

I waited tables for a year when I was 19. I feel like that job taught me more about customer service and dealing with people than just about any other job.
